ISSUED WEEKLY.

State Senator, J. S. Hargis, died very suddenly in Frankfort, Sunday.

The Democratic caucus failed to take any action on the free coinage measure. The indications are that the bill will pass the house.

In the House Friday the contested election between Stewart and Craig, of the twenty-fourth Pennsylvania district, was settled in favor of H. Craig, the Democrat.

Jerry Simpson, the Kansas statesman, thinks Gen. Weaver or Ignatius Donnelly will be the Third Party nominee for President, with Polk for vice-President.

It is stated that Mr. Cleveland will make no effort to secure a contesting delegation from New York to the Chicago convention. He has never shown himself merely for the spoils, and that is what makes him a clean, desirable man.

According to a Washington letter one of the candidates for congress in this district wrote to Capt. Stone, asking him to get off the track. The congressman answered that he would do so, when his constituents notified him that they had no further use for his services.

The Supreme Court of the United States has rendered a decision which, it is thought, will make the railroads, which have been exempt from taxation, in this state, since 1866, liable to the state for the amount of exemption. The amount involved is $126,680.90. The matter has been referred to Attorney General Hendrick.

Mr. Carlisle does not want to be a delegate to the Chicago convention, and expresses himself as follows: "I feel that I have had honor enough at present without being a delegate from the State at large. I hope, however, that the delegation will be made up of our best and most representative men. We have a number of Democrats in Kentucky of national reputation, and they should be sent to Chicago."

The Evangelist is the name of a new paper at Sturgis. It is a handsome eight page sheet, published by Rev. O. W. Ford, of the Christian church, and is devoted to the spreading of the gospel. In his salutatory the editor says: "With this paper I hope to elicit a greater desire to learn more of God's word, and of God's law, and of God's plan of saving souls. Hence, with this desire in my heart and praying that great good may be accomplished, I therefore send forth the contents of this paper in the name of my Master."

Recently the Press has not been issued without some reference to the disturbing element in the community—whisky. For ten years the conflict against the sale of liquor in this community has been going on. Victory has purchased first upon the banner of one party, and then passed to the other to return again, and again to make the shift. Thus the fight goes continually with no prospects for a final settlement. Marion is not the only town that is and has been discussing this ever new question. At Benton, Marshall county, the forces are similarly arrayed; at Princeton the fight has been more bitter than here; at Madisonville, the forces are rarely out of line of battle. So it is and has been over to abolish the sale of liquor seems but little nearer a successful termination than years ago. Incidentally it has wrought some good. The discussions have set the public to drinking the evil and the good of liquor drinking, and the result is that the excessive drinker of intoxicants has less respect from the public than ever before; the moderate drinker is less tolerated in the churches, and the younger generation regards liquor drinking, in all its phases, with less favor than did any previous generation, and in proportion to population, fewer drunkards will be developed.

Congressmen Hear From Home.

A Washington letter says: "Kentucky senators and representatives received this morning from Frankfort an official document in the shape of a joint resolution, passed by the general assembly of Kentucky, instructing them to vote for and use their best efforts to secure an amendment to the constitution of the United States empowering the people, by popular vote in the several states, to elect their senators in congress."

The members of the Kentucky delegation are receiving numerous letters daily from preachers in their respective districts urging them to vote against any appropriation for the World's Fair unless it is expressly stipulated that the fair shall not be opened on Sunday. The letters are unnecessary, however, as the Kentucky members are known to be against any appropriation of this kind on general principles.

The Sun predicts that when the nominating day comes Judge M. C. G. vens will have no opponent for the office of circuit judge and Col. J. Henry Powell will have no opponent for the office of commonwealth's attorney. Although it will be a matter of very little difference to either of the gentlemen if they do.—Morganfield Sun.

We are disposed to believe that the Sun does each of the distinguished gentlemen whose names it mentions an injustice. That they look upon the claims of other meritorious gentlemen in the district with disdain and indifference, we are not inclined to believe.

Mr A F Williams, of Presbyterian Bethel Church, delivered a lecture here last Thursday night on the subject of Prohibition. He set forth the blessings of prohibitions and refuted the arguments of a great many that prohibition so called is the cause of "blind tigers," but every sensible person knows that such is not the case. A great many who claim to be respectable, patronize "blind tigers," and even some of the leaders in the church, when they would be ashamed to enter a public saloon and take a drink in the presence of ladies, but will slip in and take a drink at a "blind tiger," thus upholding a law breaker, and are as guilty in the sight of God, whom he publicly claims to worship, as is the slender of the vile stuff. A few weeks since I heard two deacons of two different churches, boasting of how they had procured whisky by the drink regularly from druggists since the local option and prohibition laws, and one of them said he had bought it for a man whom the druggist would not let have it. Such men as these are the cause of "blind tigers" being run instead of the prohibition law, as some who love to drink it have the impudence to declare.

BLAINE WRITES.

The Secretary Has Something To Say About His Son's Family Troubles.

Washington, Feb. 28.—Under the heading of "A Personal Statement," Mr. Blaine to day gave the Associated Press a letter for publication; it is a somewhat detailed statement of his son's unpleasant domestic affairs. He says that Miss Nevins, who is now the divorced Mrs. James G. Blaine, Jr., is a young woman who is younger than himself, into a great marriage; that she let the only home her husband had to offer her—that of his father's—while he was absent, and that she let under the protest of her husband's mother, Mr. Blaine's statement that he offered to give his son $2,500 a year for the support of himself and family, but the wife would not accept of it. He denies the charges that Mrs. Blaine was unkind to her daughter-in-law. He also publishes a letter he had written to the minister who united in marriage the young couple, and generally criticizes that official or the part he played, because young Blaine was only eighteen years old at the time of the marriage.

The Outlook Encouraging.

Work is being pushed in the development of the lead and zinc ore at the old Tabb mines, seven miles south of Marion. "Pay dirt has been struck" is the latest news from there. The shaft has been sunk to a depth of 165 feet, and the mineral continues to grow richer. The parties interested have plenty of money, and as new machinery is being put in, it appears that they have some faith in the ultimate success. An experienced miner is in charge, and the work is being done in a substantial way. On the final outcome of this work depends, in a great measure, the mining interests of Crittenden.

A FUTILE EFFORT.

The Lawyers in the Local Option Fight Endeavor to Agree.

On last Friday a lively correspondence between the attorney representing F. E. Robertson & Co., the distillers, and the attorneys representing the Commonwealth, was begun and carried on at irregular intervals until Monday, when communication ceased. The object of the correspondence was to bring about a speedy settlement of the points under discussion, but at present the prospects are that the cases will have to go through the usual slow course of law before a final adjudication. The following is the first communication and the answer to it, which shows the position of each side:

To Blue & Blue and Dehoh, Attys:

Whereas, there is a great difference of opinion between us as to the right of distillers, under the existing circumstances, in District No. 1, in Crittenden county, Kentucky, to sell of their own manufacture whiskey in their usual course of trade, and considerable expense and trouble has and will accumulate on account of such difference. Now to avoid same, we propose that we agree upon some circuit court judge of this State, outside of this appellate court district, and submit the matter to him for his decision as to the right of such distillers to sell under the existing circumstances, and when such decision is rendered let both sides of the question submit until a higher court passes upon the matter.

Nunn & Cruce, James & Moore, E. C. Flannery, Attys.

Messrs. Nunn & Cruce, James & Moore, and E. C. Flannery, attorneys for F. E. Robertson & Co.:

Gentlemen: Your proposition for a settlement of the questions growing out of the right of F. E. Robertson & Co., to sell, as distillers, whiskey of their manufacture in District No. 1, of Crittenden county, in their usual course of trade under existing circumstances in said district, has this day been submitted to us.

You do not propose in your proposition to limit the sale by them to the quart or in less quantities than five gallons. The law, as we understand it, permits them to sell in quantities not less than five gallons in their usual trade, and to submit the question as proposed by you would not settle the matter at issue between us without limiting it to sales by the quart or retail.

We will now make you this proposition:

1st. We will, by agreement, take the case upon the whole record in the circuit and county courts and submit to either the judges of superior or appellate court, sitting as a court, and ask them for an immediate decision, and in the meantime from the date of this proposition is accepted, F. E. Robertson & Co., shall in good faith, cease from selling in quantities less than five gallons, and no further prosecutions shall suit out until the case is decided; or

2nd. We will submit the question involved to Judge Toney, of the Louisville Law and Equity court, or Judge Edwards, of the Louisville Chancery court, and each party shall suspend sales and prosecutions in proportion No. 1, and shall abide the decision as a finality; or

3rd. We will submit the question to either of said judges upon the whole record, each party to be bound by the decision given until it is passed upon by the Appellate court, provided the record is sent to Appellate court immediately and a speedy decision sought, and in the meantime F. E. Robertson & Co., shall in the good faith, cease to sell in quantities less than five gallons, and no prosecutions shall be sued out from the date of the acceptance of this proposition in any of the inferior courts. We can give no guaranty that no prosecutions shall be had in circuit courts for sales already made. This 26 day of Feb. 1892.

Blue & Blue, Attys. for W. J. Dehoh, D. P. Campbell, Chas. McLean, W. F. Paris, Jr., W. H. Franklin, C. C. Wolf, H. B. Torrey, J. A. Chandler, W. N. Rochester, K. E. Cannon, J. C. Foster, Jas. Worley, M. W. Ford, R. D. Browning, S. B. Eldon, J. C. Boyd, F. N. Clemens.

Other correspondence followed; none of which brought about an agreement. The main point of difference was that one side wanted the sale stopped at once, while the other would agree to stop the sale only when the court to which the question was referred said so.

Carrollville.

Nothing of interest to write but in order to kill time and annoy the readers of the Press we will try to think of something to fill our space in the paper.

Oh, yes Tom Smith the 2 handoil clothier talks of leaving us, we have not learned where he intends to emigrate to we don't Tom has been doing a very lucrative business lately as his goods does not suit the Carrollville trade very well; the boys say the clothing was worn too much before These thought them.

And yes we noticed in last weeks Press that Cheap John adds a few more costs; John my boy just change that word and say Kioties and take my word it will bring em in, for you know that kioties are very scarce, consequently the demand should be great; we know this to be true for we handle but a very light stock and the nearer we are out of an article the more calls we have for that same article, but just so soon as we have a supply just that soon are our customers supplied and the demand is over so you see that the less of any one thing you have the better, except it be cash and you should not have too much of that if you like to sleep easy.

Judge Campbell, of Paducah was in our town a few days since exhorting the voters and we find since he left that there are a goodly number of Campbellites in the neighborhood; as for ourself we have been converted to that faith for sometime.

We have been pondering for some time over the way W. J. Stone voted in the contest for speaker, and there is only one solution in view, that is Stone must have been a Whig in his young days, and still has a sympathy for his old love.

James G. Blaine learned that his reciprocity scheme would not be reciprocated to the extent that a majority of these United States would scratch his back in 1893, so the old man just crawfished out of the river.

Oh, we had almost forgotten that we had nothing to write, so conclude fearing, that perhaps the typo might get disgusted and set his typo upside down, and the devil would be to pay, the type not be inked, and the editor would fail to have Good Luck.
